HAVE YOU TRIED IT?

The old adage, that "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," was never more aptly illustrated than by him who takes his dose of Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient before the morning meal. For it not only gently regulates and purifies the system, but is a protection against disease, which no one ought to disregard. All druggists have it.

President's Party.

CAMP ROBERT LINCOLN, Wyo. T., 15, via Fort Washakie, 16.—The President's party left this fork of the Wind river at 6:30 o'clock this morning, and followed the Wind river nearly to its source. They then commenced the ascent of Robert Lincoln pass, used by Lieutenant General Sheridan last year and named in honor of the Secretary of War. The pass is the shortest and easiest of the routes between the valley of the Wind river and the valley of the Snake river. The party reached camp at 11 o'clock, having travelled about 17 miles. The camp is named Robert Lincoln and is situated on the crest of the back bone of the rival mountains altitude 9,000 feet. Within 100 yards of camp are streams which flow respectively into the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The President spent part of yesterday trout fishing and returned to camp with the heaviest catch of the party, the average weight of trout being two pounds. Surgeon Forward returned to camp having shot an elk of enormous size and weight. The other hunters of the party brought in two antelope and a good supply of mountain grouse and wild ducks. To-morrow morning the party commences the descent of Lincoln Pass and will camp in the valley of the Grosvenor Vartree river, where the first view of the Teton mountains will be obtained. The President and all the rest of the party are in excellent health and spirits.

An Assassin Confesses.

Memphis, 16.—On the 28th of last July Thos. Sayle, a young merchant engaged in business at Oakland, Miss., eighty miles south of Memphis, was assassinated by an unknown party, who mutilated the remains in a most horrible manner. Suspicion pointed to a negro named Joe Payne, who was arrested, and yesterday he made a full confession, and it was given out that he would be publicly hanged to-day at noon. The Appeal, Oakland, Miss., special, thus describes his taking to-day: At 2:35 p. m. Joe Payne, colored, was hanged by the almost unanimous vote of 500 or 600 citizens. The proceedings were quiet and business-like. Hon. J. M. Moore, mayor of Oakland, presiding. W. N. Fitzgerald and W. V. Moore, attorneys, prosecuted. Payne made a full confession. After the confession, a vote was taken and death by hanging was the verdict of the crowd who acted as jurors. Gallows were at once erected and the prisoner mounted the scaffold with a firm step. He made a speech, again confessing his guilt, advising everybody to teach their children to avoid evil thoughts. The black cap was adjusted, the drop fell and in ten minutes he was pronounced dead. The colored people were as clamorous as the whites for avenging the crime, and people think they have done right.

Against Villard.

New York, 16.—A bill of complaint was filed to-day in the United States circuit court by Spencer Ervin, Jay Cooke, jun., and Edwin C. Weaver, of Philadelphia, the Trenton banking house, of Trenton, N. J., James A. Williams, of Connecticut, and other residents of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut, stockholders of the Oregon steam navigation company against the Oregon railway and navigation company and Henry Villard. The bill recites a portion of the history of the two companies; gives what purports to be descriptions of the stock operations by which Villard and friends acquired control of the Oregon steamship company and the former Oregon railway and navigation company. The complaint then asks for an accounting, and also an injunction restraining the defendants from transferring or disposing of the rights or properties of the Oregon steamship company.

Mackey's Postal Telegraph.

San Francisco, 16.—The announcement that Mackey has taken so prominent an interest in the Postal Telegraph, and that he has induced Fair to join forces with him, excites considerable surprise. Doubts of his seriousness in the enterprise are freely expressed by those who best know him, and it is said that both of them have their hands so full of business on the Coast that it is not probable they would enter into any financial scheme they could not fully control.

Optum Collections.

Washington, 16.—It is stated at the Treasury Department that, by reason of the vigorous actions of government in prosecuting opium smugglers on the Pacific coast, duties collected at San Francisco in opium for the last fiscal year, is more than $1,000,000 in excess of the collections from that source the previous year.

Cholera.

Alexandria, 16.—The Khedive today visited the hospitals here and spoke words of encouragement to patients suffering from cholera. The total number of deaths thus far from cholera among the British troops in Egypt is 125.

INDIANA CONSISTORY.

Thirty-Second Degree, S. P. R. S.

We have been favored with a detailed description of the new home of the Scottish Rite bodies in Indiana, which will soon be dedicated to its Masonic uses, upon which occasion all consistories from adjoining States will participate. This will probably be the largest and grandest gathering of Thirty-second degree Masons ever convened in the United States. Of the members of Raper commandery new on their tour to the triennial convocation at San Francisco all but four are also Thirty-second degree Masons and members of Indiana consistory, S. P. R. S., and consequently are filled with enthusiasm at the approaching important Masonic event.

The building measures 60x80 feet, and each of its six stories is built especially for, and will be used exclusively by Indiana consistory. The main audience room is built like a theatre, with this exception, that the stage is elevated but two or three feet from the floor with steps leading to it. The floor and the stage will be used simultaneously for the working of the degrees while the visiting members occupy the circles or galleries above. The auditorium measures 60x80 feet with a height of 35 feet. The proscenium opening is 25 feet by 22 feet and the height from stage to "rigging loft" is sufficient to carry the drops entirely out of sight. As these "drops" are 25 feet high, it can readily be seen that the height is as great as is needed in even the largest theatres. Besides the principle room just spoken of, is another of less dimensions and with a smaller stage. The banquet and reception rooms are arranged with folding doors, in such manner that all can be removed so that the entire width and depth of the building in this story can be made one grand room. The balance of the building and every possible out of the way corner is filled with mechanical contrivances necessary. Each of the two stages is equipped with scenery, the subjects being the grandest and the most charming and beautiful possible. It is all purely art work. Mr. Henry C. Tryon, the scenic artist of the Salt Lake Theatre, who is a member of this consistory, has been engaged to paint the scenery and to direct the construction and arrangement of the theatrical appliances. The members of Raper commandery were therefore naturally eager to meet Mr. Tryon, who has not been in Indianapolis since he did similar work for their present building several years ago—and a genuine "love feast" was the result of the meeting.

From the foregoing brief description one can readily understand the magnitude, grandeur and expense of the undertaking, and can also readily understand the satisfaction which the members of the consistory feel at having secured the services of so capable an artist as Mr. Henry C. Tryon. We cannot resist the temptation of "hitting" Mr. Tryon another blow. Of course, his reputation is as enviable in Indianapolis as it is here; but here, we have had the benefit of the artist's greater experience, longer study and maturely developed talent, and naturally has given evidence of that more matured artistic feeling. Here he is recognized as being a man of unquestioned artistic genius, and endowed with all that is necessary to success in the highest art walks. He is also a man of a great deal more than average intelligence, is well read and is possessed of that peculiar temperament and tact, which, turned in any direction, would insure for him marked success. But he possesses the artist's soul, and in painting subjects of such human interest as those to be dealt with at the fitting up of this consistory, his highest sentiment must have the fullest play and produce the most delightful results. The subject is equal to the man; the man adequate to every demand of the subject. The consistory and Mr. Tryon may shake and exchange mutual congratulations.

Struck Oil.
Denver, 16.—For three years or more capitalists here have prospected for coal oil in the vicinity of Canyon City in this State, but with indifferent results until last night, when a vein was struck. A well was bored, which has since yielded at the rate of forty barrels per day and the oil is of excellent quality, demonstrating to a certainty that coal oil exists in paying quantities in that vicinity.

Brief Telegrams.

Bright's Disease. Diabetes.

Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious Kidney, Urinary or Liver Diseases, as they only relieve for a time and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of disease so effectually that it never returns.

Accident.

PLEASANT GROVE, August 16, 1883. Last Sunday, Mrs. Samuel S. White, Jr., of Pleasant Grove, was taking a carriage ride with her babe (five months old) and a nine-year-old girl, daughter of Mrs. Fannie Stewart, when the horse became frightened and ran away. The lady managed to guide the animal to a fence, but just as the brute got near he gave a sudden turn, capsizing the buggy into a water ditch, throwing the occupants with great force. The little girl's shoulder was dislocated, the infant very much hurt about the head and it was some time before life could be restored. Mrs. White was badly bruised, having fainted before she alighted.

The woman and children are improving and will pull through, although the babe came very near being killed.

Musical.

Stephen's first class will furnish the music for the next Sunday School Union meeting, they will meet for practice on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. His classes here will now rest from their labors for two weeks, after which we are promised an examination and entertainment, intended to show the progress of the classes in reading vocal music, and a repetition of the late concert of national songs, in the Salt Lake theatre, where it can be given with splendid effect. This building is noted for its acoustic qualities which will enable the hearers to understand the words distinctly. The next novelty will be a chorus of boys, numbering 200 voices, which Mr. Stephens intends organizing; something new here, but well known and greatly admired in Europe, and it is the most effectual way of training the boys for a musical future.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

Physicians are often startled by remarkable discoveries. ## THE COTTONWOODS.

Mixing with the Elite at a Summer Resort.

BIG COTTONWOOD, August 15.

One seldom sees anything about this camp, though in some respects one of the most attractive sections of Utah in mineral resources and as a summer resort. Men who have been here more than ten years speak of the place as though it was struck last spring, and say that as yet there has been no prospecting to amount to anything. At present there is a little doing, and the district is coming up and gradually becoming a producer.

The mine here are on the same belt as those of Park city.

The Maxfield, at Argenta, employs more than twenty men, and is making its regular shipments of high grade ore and plenty of it.

The Cold Spring Mining company will soon tap the vein on the O. K., and appearances indicate they have the most valuable property in the district.

A few men are working on the Reed and Benson.

The Eclipse will soon employ a force of thirty men.

The Silver King has recently made a rich strike, and it is on that papers that in a short time this place will be spoken of.

The other day about noon I found myself in the neighborhood of Silver Lake, one of a chain of three in a depression of the divide which separates Alta from the Park. This is a summer resort for Salt Lake within thirty miles of the city, and is the best cooling off place I know of. For persons who like scenery, here are the rocks, and lakes, and riverlets, grass and flowers; which I might classify, but there are so few acquainted with botany—some very fine prospects and some very fair aspects with an atmosphere impregnated with aromatic odors; a hotel with bar attached, a couple of boats for the use of visitors, and plenty of trout for the catching. I had heard there were about 100 visitors in the neighborhood, and though hungry, felt delicate about obtruding on the elite of the city. I had an instinct that stogy boots, overalls and cowboy shirt were not the thing. The triangle had sounded for dinner. I approached the proprietor and diffidently inquired if I could get something to eat. He assented. I then told him I would prefer to wait till the other guests had gotten through, as I supposed they were pretty high toned. He said some of them were a little that way. I then sampled his whisky, which seemed to me specially adapted for invalids.

By this time the party in the dining room made their appearance—a few old ladies, a few young ladies, and a few gentlemen. I noticed one elderly lady who skipped along with the gait of fifteen and I thought her a good advertisement of the healing and invigorating properties of the air and waters of this favored spot. Horses were brought and they prepared to mount. Among the gentlemen was one who attracted my attention. He was very narrow, very slender and with legs so thin that his venturing out on them seemed to me a marked illustration of the power of mind over matter. A bystander informed me the gentleman was a preacher. I could not think him a representative of that dangerous class of divines who instead of saving souls, achieve an unenviable notoriety in making them. Nature evidently intended this man to be inoffensive in that way, though persons are always more or less offensive and seem to think the circumstance of sparring their way through this world insures them a good deal the best of it in the next.

However, I am inclined to think there is a reality in religion, at least so far as they are concerned, and it is not agreeable to hear the subject treated with levity.

I entered the dining room. One gentleman occupied it. It (the dining room) did not realize my anticipations of a watering place hotel. No music, no flowers, no colored waiters. The old lady who presided seemed anxious, and a good deal flustered. Some of the guests had not yet come to dinner and I believe they were the high-toned ones. The other gentleman called for water and in her haste to expedite matters she gave it to me instead. I was about to suggest she take away the dull tools and go back and catch her wind when the relief came on and a malign fate brought in the missing party—two young ladies, two young gentlemen. It was not pleasant; however, they made the best of it and were soon absorbed in an interesting conversation on the subject of potatoes as an article of diet and their own individual appetites. I had had a glimpse of society and wrenched myself away and took the trail for Alta.

Alta is dull. Fires and snow slides have done their work, and left an air of has-beenness. I was told 150 men were working in the neighborhood. A poker game between a Chinaman and white man, however, did not impress me favorably with the place, and when I left the Chinaman seemed to be out-holding it a little.
